- 3. Bianca: no comment
- 4. Robin Walter: no comment
- 5. Robin Fahning: emailed treasury report and would be glad to go over it if there are any questions.
- 6. Laura: no comment
- 7. Cara: no comment
- 8. Jenn: Planted beans with first crop going to Placer Food Bank helping the community, next will go to the salad bar. Mrs. Sohrakoff had an amazing day and also Mr. Judd. Testing was completed all last week. Don't stop reading!
- 9. Mr. Judd: We humbled Mrs. Sohrakoff. We need a docent for the community garden to continue the giving. We need some coordinator. I got it set up so it does not need any more significant coordination. I wanted to get some classroom support vs. PTC. I would love to have the PTC involved. Can handle June with checking timers for water. Learned tractor driving. Wanted the base to be teachers involved with their row. (Mrs. Tverberg spoke with Margarite, but she did not seem interested). There are timers on boxes. The boxes are separate from the community garden. Spoke with Lynn for here in lunch room and could consider selling from the other part of the community garden as Loomis Grammar Product at a local Farmers Market. We are dedicating the Green House to Mrs. Sohrakoff. Margarite can now go back to her design-good way to bring her back.

Feedback from testing will be interesting figuring out how to send out information so parents understand through the summer-some kind of cheat sheet.

(Cara) There is no comparing from previous year. Statewide we are expecting a decline in numbers due to the different way of testing. This is a benchmark year-Yay!

(Dave): So this will be lower statewide? - Per Rick and Cara-yes. Are there incentives for higher test scores? Not anymore per Rick and Cara

Cara and Rick: Kids are thinking

Math: Better Guide to follow for K-5 with Everyday Math. 6-8 CPM

District Staff Appreciation: Alyssa Awarded Volunteer of the Year for 2015

Fundraisers have been great with very little distraction in class.

Kent and Ashley did a phenomenal job with Cookie Dough incentives
